Senior Honors Project

“Student Government Association Elections Ethics Chair Handbook”

By: Rachel Parsons

Introduction

In the fall of 2004, I was appointed the Ethics Chair for the 2005 Student Government Association. Though I had been involved in elections before through aiding campaigns, I had not previously served on election commission or ethics committee, nor had I had any interactions with either. Needless to say, I had a lot to learn. I decided to put this information together as part of my senior honors project because no guidebook previously existed for the ethics chair. By creating this packet, it is my hope the future ethics chair will be able to use past experiences to maintain a successful and ethical election.

As ethics chair, my chief responsibilities were leading and holding meetings of the ethics committee, an eight-member body, consisting of seven appointed members and the election commissioner, who sits on the committee as an ex officio (by virtue of position) member and serving as an ex officio member of the election commission. In addition to these duties, my time spent included meeting with representatives from the Dean of Students office, speaking with candidates and campaign managers concerning ethical violations, speaking at mandatory meetings, editing the ethics helpful hints packet, and reporting the minutes from ethics meetings concerning complaints.

In this packet, I will include a timeline for the committee, suggestions for leading efficient meetings, hints on how to interpret the ethics packet, information from 2005 ethical violations, and research on how Southeastern Conference schools conduct elections.

The University of Tennessee holds one of the largest and well-funded college elections in the country. When I was appointed as ethics chair, I will be the first to admit

I was clueless. Without the help of 2005 election commissioner Troy Weston, I would not have been able to learn how I could work to ensure the fairness of this election. I created this packet with the hopes the ethics chairs after me would better understand their position, how to effectively run the committee and how to work with political parties. Keeping this in mind, please remember I can only use my experience and knowledge to describe this effort, and I only hope this can serve as one of the tools used to conduct a successful election.

I wish you the best of luck!

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Rachel Parsons". The signature is fluid and elegant, with the first name "Rachel" and last name "Parsons" clearly distinguishable.

My definition of a good ethics chair...

Being the ethics chair is not a “glamour” position. You and seven other people must remain neutral throughout the election. Therefore, your friends who are affiliated with other political parties may not get to spend as much time with you. Troy always told me the committee members should be “above reproach.” For this reason, there are a few distinguishing characteristics of a good ethics chair.

1. The ability to remain neutral.

Being the ethics chair is not a “glamour” position. You and seven other people must remain neutral throughout the election. Therefore, your friends who are affiliated with other political parties may not get to spend as much time with you. For this reason, the ethics chair must be sure he or she can keep confidential issues discussed at meetings. He or she must make efforts to equally interact with members of all parties and never show favoritism to one party over the other.

2. Have a background in SGA elections, through service to a political party or election committee.

Coming into this position, it is important to have a basic knowledge the UT election system, how the elections are run, and how candidates and parties operate. By knowing these elements, the ethics chair is in a better position to interpret the election packet because he or she understands the candidates’ perspective on elections.

3. Compassionate.

The ethics chair must be open-minded and willing to listen to all sides of the story. From the moment a complaint is filed, it is important for the ethics chair to have the compassion to listen to all sides of the story and present those sides to committee members as well so a fair decision can be made. Each election season, some parties spend in excess of $8,000 to come away without the title of SGA President or Vice President. Because so much is at stake, an ethics chair must realize each situation is not always black and white and have compassion for situations that may arise.

4. Have the ability to make and stand by tough decisions.

The ethics committee has the power to disqualify political parties and candidates. Because of the time each candidate has invested in elections, making decisions to impose heavy penalties is very tough on the ethics chair. But just because these decisions are tough does not mean they should not be made. An ethics chair must be willing to make these decisions and ensure they are rooted in fact and thoughtful conversation by the committee so he or she can stand by those decisions.

5. Approachable

If a candidate or political party is having difficulty, it is important they feel they can approach the ethics chair with any questions. In addition, while conducting ethics meetings, he or she wants members of the committee to feel as though they can safely voice their opinions. Being a friendly face during elections can reassure uneasy candidates and parties, and may help to prevent ethical violations.

6. Have the ability to work well with the election commissioner

The election commissioner is one of the only people who can understand what the ethics chair goes through during elections and vice versa. Each person receives the brunt of criticism and puts in numerous hours to ensure election's success.

The two are also usually those best familiar with the election packet, rules, and procedures. For this reason, the election commissioner and ethics chair can act as an information source and advocate for the other. Building and maintaining this close relationship is vital for the election's success.

Ethics Chair Timeline

Mid-September

The ethics chair is typically appointed at this time. Once you are appointed, start considering potential committee members. Although you are not responsible for appointing these members, you will be able to make recommendations for the committee. When considering these, remember you want a variety of opinions, election experience, and backgrounds. This ensures better discussions from all sides.

Early October

Send SGA President and Vice President your committee recommendations. Also encourage them to appoint a committee before the end of the month! You never know when you will have ethics complaints and require a quorum. It is also a good idea at this time (if you have not already) to be in touch with the Dean of Students' office regarding meeting for elections. My particular contact in this matter was J.J. Brown. Yours may be someone else. It is usually a good idea to meet and make sure everyone is on the same page and prepared for the year ahead.

November

By this time, your committee should be appointed. Once they are appointed, arrange an organizational meeting. At this time, you should speak with members concerning confidentiality and also pass around member information forms (see FORMS section of notebook.) Give the committee an update of where the election commission is in regards to revising the election packet. In addition, you can distribute a copy of the election packet as it stands and encourage them to begin reading.

At this time, you will also have been appointed an assistant. Meet with this assistant to discuss expectations for the coming year. Your assistant can play a variety of roles, from helping to file reports on ethics complaints, to calling candidates to come in for ethics meetings. In addition, do not be afraid to ask he or she for help if you have too much paperwork.

End of November

By this time, you should have an approved copy of the election packet. Hold a final ethics meeting to firm meeting times, confidentiality issues, and packet changes for the committee. Prepare them for the upcoming season because when you come back for spring, elections are in full swing.

Over Christmas Break

Take this time to get organized! Make sure you know the packet inside out as well as mark important dates on your calendar. Prepare a member information sheet for each ethics member so you can have phone numbers, instant messenger names, etc. should you need them. Make sure your notebook is in working order and have your complaint forms ready. I have included a copy of my complaint form in the FORMS section of the notebook.

Early January

You have returned from Christmas Break and election season is on everyone's minds! At this time, you should begin to revise the ethics helpful hints packet. Call building supervisors to see if poster-plastering rules have changed. Also, make sure the ethics complaint form is available on the votesga website. This way if someone does wish to file a complaint, you can refer them to the website.

Meet with your committee and make sure the agreed upon time works for most people (for me it was 7:30 a.m. Friday morning – mornings usually work best.)

Early February

Usually the first or second week in February marks the first set of mandatory meetings. For the 2005 election, the election commission chose to break up the meetings into two sessions, but future election commissions may choose to change this. At these meetings, you will be responsible for discussing the ethics helpful hints packet, how complaints are filed, and encouraging candidates to run a clean and fair election. I have included an outline of suggested notes for mandatory meetings in the FORMS section of the notebook.

Late February

You should be receiving some complaints by now! Also, petitions will be due at this time. You may have to hear ethics complaints regarding late petitions, forms, etc. Be prepared for these meetings.

Early March

At this time, the election commissioner should contact the executive candidates or campaign managers regarding attending an executive committee meeting. Attending these meetings is a great way for party members to familiarize themselves with you. The election commissioner, assistant commissioner, and ethics chair should attend these meetings and give out a handout with their contact information on it for the candidates should they need to get in touch with you. In turn, the election commissioner will hand out a contact information sheet for committee members. Keep a copy of this sheet for your records to ensure you will be able to contact party members when necessary.

Late March/One Week Before Elections

You should prepare your committee for a busy week! The committee can meet anywhere from once to three times a day during elections, so you should arrange potential meeting times for the upcoming week. Again, stress neutrality. The ethics chair and committee are under increased scrutiny during this time, and must remain in a respectable position. This does not mean you have to ignore your friends, but always be mindful of your actions and the manner in which they may be interpreted by other candidates and party members.

You should reserve a room for ethics meetings, and remind candidates during election season, they are “on call” 24 hours a day. This means if you hold a late meeting, they may have to come in before the committee to hear a decision. Therefore, you should hold your meetings in a place that encourages discussion and is also befitting an ethics meeting. For me, this place was the Law Building. You can contact the law school main office to reserve the room. A time that usually works best is around 9:00 p.m.

Election Week

Be prepared for ANYTHING!!! Have your notebook in order, your complaint forms up to date, and know the packet inside out. It is probably best to carry one with you at all times, should someone have a question. Make yourself available to all candidates and parties. Election Commission should be taking inventories of campaign stops, so make sure you visit these as well. It is important to make your presence known at this time, and to appear conscientious of all things elections. Set potential meeting times with your committee, especially during election days when complaints must be answered as quickly as possible.

Last Day of Elections

You will have dinner with the committee and election commission during this time prior to campaign managers, candidates arriving in the Dean of Students office. After dinner, party officials will arrive, and the election results will be read without names. You, however, will see the results of the election. You will also validate the unofficial results with members of election commission. Make sure your committee members also see the results – they have worked hard to make the election run smoothly.

After this, you will go to the University Center to read the official results before candidates, campaign managers, and anyone else who wants to know! Maintain your composure and assist the election commissioner in anything he or she may need at this time. They are responsible for reading the results.

After the results are read, you will wait and then attend each party's celebration. At this time you will see many happy candidates and many unhappy ones. Be respectful. These candidates have spent thousands of dollars to lose an election. Thank them for running a clean election and encourage them about the job they did.

Post-Election

The committee will meet one to two more times after the election has concluded. The first will be to ensure no complaints will be filed by the final complaint deadline concerning Campaign Value Reports and other possible irregularities. The final meeting will be to thank committee members for their service and also to solicit any suggestions for next year's ethics chair and committee. Make sure these suggestions are recorded and sent to the next ethics chair. In addition, write personal thank-you letters to your committee and to those especially helpful to you during the campaign season. They have worked hard for the election and certainly deserve recognition at this time.

Useful Definitions/Explanations

In this section, I will further describe some aspects mentioned in the timeline for further clarity.

Campaign Value Reports

Parties have spending limits each year – in 2005, the limit was $8,500. Parties are required to turn in three sets of campaign value reports complete with bank statements, donor lists, etc. Incorrect or incomplete CVRs are one of the chief complaints issued to the ethics committee. For this reason, you should familiarize yourself with the format. It is typically the role of the assistant election commissioner to be in charge of finances. Assist this person if at all possible and become aware of financial situations as they arise.

Complaints

Anyone in the student body, affiliated with UT, etc. can file a complaint. The complaints are filed to contend a political candidate or party has broken a rule within the election packet or in Hilltopics, which are also considered in ethics deliberations.

When filing a complaint, it is important to stress providing proof. If the committee has no proof a rule was broken, then it becomes one person's word against another. If the complaint concerns e-mails, then proof could include copies of the e-mails. If the proof concerns something that could have witnesses, people can sign statements saying they saw a particular event take place. Regardless, the committee cannot make a decision without proof.

Once a complaint is filed, usually to the votesga@utk.edu account, the complaint must be answered within 36 hours. Once a complaint has been filed, notify the person who filed it to let he or she know you have received it. Also note you will not tell the person the decision of the complaint – if he or she wants to know, they can look in the ethics notebook in the Dean of Students office. Call the ethics committee to meet, and discuss the issue. At this time, it is important to consider a few questions:

1. If the complaint is true, what portions of the packet or Hilltopics did the political party violate?
2. How severe is the violation? Will it directly affect other candidates' right to a fair election?
3. What questions, if any, do you have for the person who filed the complaint?
What questions do you have for the party the complaint is filed against?

If you have established the complaint is a violation of the election packet, then you can proceed to discuss potential punishments for the violation (see the punishments section for further explanations.) Discuss how the punishment could change based on the testimony of party members. Be prepared for every possible reaction. Also, remember the committee does not punish a particular person in violation of the rules; instead the entire party is punished. For this reason, ignorance is rarely an acceptable excuse for violations. An election packet is always in effect, and parties are always governed by rules, even before they become official candidates.

If you think the complaint can be discussed and an action decided in a reasonable amount of time, then you can call executive candidates and campaign managers in to hear the punishment at the same meeting time. I would usually schedule an ethics meeting at 7:30 and ask the party to come in at 8:15 or 8:30 to discuss the issue. This way, you do not have to call another meeting soon thereafter.

If the issue will be highly debated, or you are unsure whether it presents a violation, wait for the committee to make a decision before calling in party members. For example, if you have a meeting at 8:00 a.m. and make decisions, then you can notify the party and ask someone to come in around 1:00 or later. The entire committee does not have to present to issue the decision, but you should allow them to come should they be able to attend. Typically, you will be the person telling the party the decision, but you can allow the committee to answer questions or speak should he or she be an expert on a particular issue.

Contesting the Validity of the Election

After the Election Commission has unofficially validated the election, a complaint can be filed contesting the validity of the election. This type of complaint must contend there were substantial irregularities in the election causing it to remain invalid.

Needless to say, this is the kind of complaint you want to avoid at all costs. You may not always be able to avoid it, but by making every effort to provide a fair election, you can. When a validity complaint is filed, the committee has the option to consider it, or pass it on to the student tribunal. In general, it is a good idea to forward the complaint to the tribunal. Ideally, the committee has already made decisions concerning the complaint and would offer no different decision based on the complaint. Therefore, it is important to have new pairs of eyes to view the issue and to help the parties feel as though they have received a fair election. See the section on the student tribunal for more information.

Punishments

The ethics committee can employ a variety of punishments when considering an issue, the most significant being disqualification. The committee can take away campaign time, speaking engagements, and interest meetings. The most important thing to consider when deciding a punishment is consistency. For example, if the committee punishes a particular party for an issue, should a similar issue arise, another party should receive a similar punishment. In addition, when deciding a punishment, you must consider the seriousness of the violation – what could happen that would be worse than this punishment, what could happen that would be less?

When beginning discussions with the committee, we all agreed how the committee handled the first complaint could be considered the most important. By being firm and showing the committee will follow through on enforcing the packet, other parties will know they will face similar punishments should they break the rules. While I have stressed the importance of compassion, let me also stress the importance of consistency and fairness. By following the packet, and administering punishments founded in the rules, you will be ensuring the fairness of the election. It is not fun to make these tough decisions, especially to deliver them to your peers, but they must be made and people will respect you more in the end for making them.

Student Tribunal

The Student Tribunal is a body of students assembled by the Judicial Affairs office who are not directly affiliated with the election. Should a party wish to appeal a decision of the ethics committee, the appeal goes before the student tribunal. The tribunal is a more formal atmosphere, conducted much like a courtroom. Student lawyers from the law school will represent each side, and will call witnesses for each side in the proceedings.

The existence of the student tribunal is one of the chief reasons why ethics discussions, consistency, and decisions rooted in the packet are important because you will have to defend these decisions in front of the tribunal. If the decision has been carefully thought out, then you should have no trouble defending it in front of the tribunal.

Ethics Information for Mandatory Meeting, Part Dos

-Intro of Ethics Committee Members Present:

-Definition of Ethics Committee- seven member body made of students who will remain neutral during elections. Ethics is responsible for hearing complaints, using information provided to determine if a violation of the packet has been made, then make a judgment.

-As an ethics committee we have assembled a few things to help you out, contained in our “ethics helpful hints” page. The page gives lots of details about poster plastering in specific buildings, etc. Because this is the environmental semester at UT, it is very important that campaigns be aware and conscientious of being “environmentally friendly” while poster plastering.

-COMPLAINTS

-Now I wanted to give everyone an idea about Ethics’ other job, dealing with complaints. The complaint form is on the sga website and is also in your election packet as appendix M.

- Please submit this form via the votesga account.

- When submitting this form, we want you to think about a few things- whether the complaint is truly a violation of the packet, and if you are able to prove this violation- must be some element of proof

- Once complaint is submitted, ethics has 36 hours to respond.

- Candidates, campaign managers are “on call” during these times.

- Committee will meet with candidates, campaign managers, etc. to discuss. The representative must know your campaign inside out, because they are speaking for your entire campaign.

- Once the committee meets, a verdict is decided, and can include limiting speaking engagements, campaigning time, taking away interest meetings, and (in the worst case scenario) disqualifying the candidate.

- All complaints are public record, in the Dean of Students office.

2005 Ethics Meeting Minutes

Date: 1/14/05

Description of Event: General meeting; Discussion about the Ross Smith and Rachel Frey "Facebook" potential complaint. Meeting began at 7:30 a.m. and concluded at 8:30.

Members Present:

Problems/Concerns from Event: At the meeting, we discussed the presence of a Facebook group titled "Ross and Rachel 4 SGA." Facebook is an online program where members can add friends, create groups, and message each other. It is not sponsored by the university. While Ross and Rachel are not members of the group, the VoteSga e-mail account received a complaint from a student concerned with p. 13 of the packet, under General Election Rules and Procedures, item III, Pre-election procedures. The packet reads "All other electronic media included (e.g. instant messaging) shall be deemed campaign material for the purposes of the Student Government Elections. Use of this type of media prior to campaign week is strictly prohibited."

The following is the discussion minutes from the meeting:

Questions raised:

- Is the administrator of the group a friend or exec member?
- Is the administrator of the group inviting people to join?
- Are exec members in the group? How can we really determine exec when they potentially give us a fake exec list?
- What's fair and reasonable? What can and can't we do? What can and can't we sanction?

The following points were made:

- Facebook is more similar to e-mail because people can receive messages, etc.
- Groups can't send messages to people who aren't members. Any messages sent would stay within the group.
- This particular group is one that can be joined only by invitation or approval.

2005 Ethics Meeting Minutes

Date: 2/9/05

Description of Event: Exploratory meeting. Discuss with candidates Ross Smith and Rachel Frey the nature of the facebook complaint filed 2/6/05.

Members Present:

Rachel Parsons	X
Kristi Bogle	X
Chaya Chandrasekaran	X

Problems/Concerns from Event: At the meeting, we met with Ross and Rachel to discuss the Facebook complaint, and how much they knew about the complaint. The following are questions and answers from the meeting.

1. Were you aware of the Facebook group?

R.S. Over Christmas break, I became aware of it, and I contacted Rachel because I didn't know who started it.

Rachel said she knew who started it and contacted that person to ask if they would take it down. She said at that point, the girl who was administering the website made it so other people couldn't join.

She said that Mary did not ask them if she could make the group beforehand.

Ross said that Mary is not a part of their exec, nor is she affiliated with their campaign, and as soon as they became aware of it, they asked their exec members not to join. He also said to his knowledge, none of their exec members were a part of the site.

Timeline:

Mid-December- The Facebook group is started. Sometime around then Ross and Rachel are informed about it.

January 14- the day I printed off the site- we know it was removed sometime thereafter.

Description of Event: Ethics Committee Meeting with Rachel Frey and Ross Smith, OneTenn candidates

Members Present:

Details: Meeting with Ross Smith and Rachel Frey regarding a complaint concerning a Facebook group started in their name. The group was started in mid-November, and was taken down in mid-January. The group was started by a non-exec member and non-senate candidate. Based on the electronic media clause of the election packet and their participation in starting the group (which was limited,) the ethics committee determined OneTenn's speaking engagements would be delayed by 24 hours.

Problems/Concerns from Event: The Ethics Committee considered two complaints against the One Tenn party. One complaint considered the presence of an announcement on a sorority agenda concerning an interest meeting held by One Tenn. The complaint contended the written announcement could be considered campaign material, which cannot be distributed until the beginning of the election.

Due to the fact the announcement was not a printed announcement in proper form, approved by the election commission and was distributed prior to campaign week, the ethics committee found the flyer to be in violation of the election packet.

The second complaint filed concerned One Tenn's interest meeting, which was held on March 10th in the Art and Architecture Building Atrium. The complaint contended the atrium was “a main thoroughfare for those walking from Humanities to many places, including the music building and Fraternity Park. Having the interest meeting in the Art and Architecture Atrium therefore violates section IIIC, page 13, because it is, in fact, being held in a public forum.”

The ethics committee considered the accessibility of the building, the likelihood those uninterested in the meeting may be affected, and section IIIC of the packet. One Tenn was found to be in violation of the packet.

Due to the two violations, the committee chose to prohibit One Tenn from holding an interest meeting during the week of March 14-18.

Problems/Concerns from Event: The Ethics Committee met to discuss a complaint concerning an e-mail sent from a “friend of the party” for Impact. In the e-mail, the author did not announce an interest meeting in the format designated by the election packet, nor did the author remove identifying signatures. In relation to the packet, the complaint contends:

“The above email is not only in violation of Section III C, page 13 because it does not follow the clear format for interest meeting emails, but it also violates Section IIIC because the author has a signature on the email. As quoted from the 2005 Election Packet, “no other text can be included in the email, including automatic signatures.”

The e-mail was also not copied to votesga@utk.edu, which is a requirement of the election packet.

Based on discussions with Carmen Bandy, Impact Campaign manager, and proof produced by the complaint the committee considered to what extent Impact was responsible for the author’s mistake. Because ignorance is not considered an excuse, and the author had attended party meetings, Impact was found to be in violation of the packet.

In consideration of this issue, Impact will not be allowed to hold a campaign stop from 8-10 a.m. at Humanities Plaza on Wednesday, March 30.

Problems/Concerns from Event: Meeting to discuss the late Campaign Value Report turned in to the SGA office. The first CVR, as stated in the election packet was due Monday, March 28 at noon. Tennessee's Tomorrow turned in their CVR after the noon due date. In addition, the CVR was absent of deposit slips, donor lists, receipts, and candidates who paid party dues.

In addition, the campaign violated the packet through failure to submit a complete CVR. According to the election packet, "Failure by a political party to submit a Campaign Value Report by the specified deadlines...will result in a violation of the Election Rules and Procedures and disqualification."

In lieu of the violations, the Ethics Committee will issue a warning to Tennessee's Tomorrow notifying them that failure to turn in a complete second CVR on time will result in disqualification. In addition, the party will not be allowed to hold any campaign stops on Friday, April 1, from midnight to midnight.

Problems/Concerns from Event: Meeting to discuss complaint received concerning an alleged poster placement by the Old School party in North Carrick Hall. The hall director filed a complaint, reading:

“Specifically, flyers from the Bandeian/Christenson campaign have been placed on various floors of North Carrick without my permission. Please remind candidates to ask permission of each Hall Director before posting literature throughout our campus' residence halls.”

Although the ethics committee publishes poster plastering guidelines, neither the commission nor the committee have the manpower to find every illegal poster on campus. In addition, facility services workers, hall directors, and other UT employees have the jurisdiction over removing the posters. The ethics committee considers excessive/illegal poster plastering a self-correcting problem: posters placed illegally will be removed and campaigns will have lost the time and money spent to produce and place the posters.

The committee elected to ask Old School to remove the improperly placed posters, and write a letter of apology to the hall director. The e-mail to the hall director was mailed to the hall director, Friday, April 1.

Problems/Concerns from Event: Meeting to discuss complaint received April 5 concerning an issue arising from concerns over illegal poster plastering. The student who filed the complaint alleges he was in the process of removing illegally placed posters when he said he was confronted by members of Tennessee's Tomorrow. His statements are as follows:

"I was: assaulted (Verbally and physically) called names (Faggot, loser) physically stopped from removing signs, had chips thrown in my face from a distance of 2 feet, threatened that the UTPD would be called, and demeaned as a human being. The group at the center of this negative attention was Tennessee's Tomorrow. The one group that actually said I had a RIGHT to do it and told me to just bring the posters back to them was 110.

While a member of TN Tomorrow wanted to, "Knock me the fuck out" a member of 110 agreed with me that the posters were in violation and wanted me to return them so they could put them in a area where they wouldn't be in violation."

The student also spoke with Dean of Students J. J. Brown and Election Commissioner Troy Weston concerning the issue. The ethics committee discussed the issue, considering illegal poster plastering first. Although the ethics committee publishes poster plastering guidelines, neither the commission nor the committee have the manpower to find every illegal poster on campus. In addition, facility services workers, hall directors, and other UT employees have the jurisdiction over removing the posters. The ethics committee considers excessive/illegal poster plastering a self-correcting problem: posters placed illegally will be removed and campaigns will have lost the time and money spent to produce and place the posters.

Problems/Concerns from Event: Meeting to discuss complaint received April 5 concerning conflict of interest resulting from Tennessee's Tomorrow candidate Jeremy Durham previous ownership of a textbook company, which is a part of his platform. Also in the complaint were concerns arising from the spending limit and how much items, particularly a promotional bus would cost during the campaign.

These issues were noted by the ethics committee. Specifically, the portion of the complaint reading, "I do have a problem with Mr. Durham using the SGA election process as free advertising for his website and feel that the benefits in advertising he receives from including this website in his campaign should be reflected in his party's Campaign Value Report. These costs could be estimated by researching the costs of similar advertising on media such as websites, buses, and print media (all of which are being used to advertise Mr. Durham's private venture)."

The ethics committee moved to request Durham include the promotional costs from his textbook website to be reported on his campaign value report.

Problems/Concerns from Event: Meeting to discuss complaint filed by One Tenn contesting the validity of the 2005 election. After discussion, the committee decided to send the complaint to the Student Tribunal out of the office of Judicial Affairs for review. In regards to the complaint, the committee did, however, emphasize several points, which are as follows.

In considering an appeal to contest the election's validity, as outlined in the election packet, the committee must consider two questions (Page 19, Section H.) 1. Whether or not there is a substantial irregularity and 2. Whether or not the irregularity changed the outcome of the election.

Tennessee's Tomorrow was found in violation of the campaign spending limit as set forth by the election packet. The party was in excess of $1,500, chiefly due to an excess 500 t-shirts ordered on behalf of the party by the presidential candidate's fraternity not reported on the campaign value report.

Although it is impossible to quantify material with votes, the ethics committee finds difficulty linking 500 t-shirts with the 1,500-plus votes Durham and Levy received. Admittedly, this matter could be left to speculation, however, the winning presidential and vice presidential candidates won by 602 votes and 862 votes, respectively. Attaching a percentage to the excess Tennessee's Tomorrow spent along with the votes received would not equal enough votes to defeat the winning candidates.

2. Residence Hall areas are available for group rallies and/or demonstrations. However, specific guidelines and regulations apply. (see Hilltopics and Guidebook/Calendar for University Housing)
3. Contacts for speaking engagements must be made through the Hall Director. Guest speakers may enter the living areas of a residence hall only at the invitation of all residents of that particular living unit and only for speaking purposes.
4. Door-to-door solicitation for business, political or other purposes, is not permitted in residence halls. (see Guidebook/Calendar for University Housing).

Links/Information From Other Schools

I have included information from other SEC schools regarding their election processes. Often, much of what we do is based on good ideas from other schools. As you will see, the election packets for other schools are significantly smaller than those at UT, as well as spending limits are nonexistent or much smaller as well.

off Election and are to be applicable to Section one (1) of this article.

32          Section 7.           Expenditures; unopposed candidates

34          Candidates who are unopposed are considered elected and therefore are not allowed to required to file expenditure reports.

38          Section 8.           Expenditures; application to single candidate only

44          Section 9.           Expenditures; in-kind contributions

Article XIII: Miscellaneous Rules and Guidelines

Section 1. Student Senate Seats; naming

- A. Student Senate seats shall be divided in half after apportionment in which one-half (1/2) of the seats available in a college shall go up for elections in the Fall and the other half (1/2) shall be up for election in the Spring.
- B. Students will be able to vote for as many candidates as there are seats allocated.
- C. Upon election, Student senators shall be designated in the following way:
1. Fall senators shall be named A, C, E, etc.
  2. Spring senators shall be named B, D, F, etc.
  3. These letters will be assigned after elections based upon alphabetical order of the candidates' last names.

Section 2. Student Senate Seats; vacancy

If a Senate seat becomes vacant during a semester, then the College Council shall appoint someone to serve the remainder of the term. Any seats with a half (1/2) term or more remaining that are vacant at 4:30 p.m. on the Friday before filing begins shall be elected as a half (1/2) term Senate seat in the upcoming election.

Section 3. University Court Justices; naming

Elected University Court Justice seats shall be divided in the same way as Senate Seats. Two Justices (2) will be elected in the Fall and two justices (2) in the Spring.

Section 4. Apportionment of Student Senate; procedure for change

If apportionment causes an academic area to have more or less Senate seats than it previously had, then two lettered seats will be added or removed, as the particular case calls for. In the event that seats are removed, any Senators whose seats have been discontinued shall be allowed to serve out their regular terms. In the event that seats are added, then they shall both be placed on the Spring election ballot, one as a full term and one as a half (1/2) term.

Section 5. General Election

In order to win the General Election, a candidate must receive a percentage majority of the votes cast plus one. For example, if there are two (2) seats available, a candidate would need to get 25% plus one vote, a percentage majority, to win outright. Percentage majority is determined by dividing 100 by the number of seats available, and then dividing that number by two (2). If more candidates receive the percentage majority needed than there are seats open, then the candidate(s) that receive the highest number of votes shall be declared the winner(s). For example, if three (3) people are running for two (2) seats and all three (3) attain the percentage majority needed, then the two (2) candidates with the most votes are the winners in the General Election.
